Summary of the 2017 Summit

- Overview of the Summit, Approach and Process
  - Purpose was to drive change in health policy designed to improve health equity in the Americas
  - Multisectoral approach from countries throughout Americas to share and collaborate on policies and issues related to health equity
  - Focus Areas: policy, gender equality, ethnicity, indigenous populations, region of the Americas, social determinants of health, pathways to health, multisectoral collaborations
  - Objectives:
    1. Objective 1: Promote an exchange of information on policies and programming designed to address health equity and the forces that drive inequitable health.
    2. Objective 2: Bring together international group of actors for sharing and collaboration, and work to promote action on health equity

- Declaration of Cuernavaca
  Several members (Rocio Saenz, Carlos Caceres, Juan Pablo Gutierrez, Francisco Armada, Paulina Pacheco, Leonel Arguello, Manuel Urbina) spoke about the development of the Declaration. Key concerns include:
  - Declaration was informed by and drafted at the Summit to reflect enthusiasm, motivation, and shared vision to increase action in the Americas in a collaborative way. Mutually beneficial to all sectors represented
  - Call for declaration to be more detailed
  - Since not presented at Summit, call for more discussion among network members to clarify the purpose and components of the document

Call to action: If you have any further comments or additions to the Declaration, please send to us no later than Friday, January 5th. Once all revisions are received, we will return the draft to the Network. It will then be the first item of business at our next meeting. The draft Declaration can be found (Spanish) or (English).

Development of Network to Share Knowledge  Promote Action on Health Equity in Americas

- Network Role:
  - Share knowledge on promising policies to promote health equity
  - Promote implementation, dissemination and monitoring of policies
  - Be an intersectoral platform
  - Inform PAHO Commission

- Substantive Areas
  - Upholding human rights, including rights contained in international conventions addressing equality
  - Education for all
  - Instituting effective legislation prohibiting all forms of discrimination
  - Work and working conditions
  - Sexual and reproductive health
➢ Caregiving across the life course
➢ Gender, sexual orientation, and gender-identity based violence
➢ Child and youth health social services

- Membership and Connections
- Communications and Processes

➢ Values: the cornerstone of the Network’s goals and objectives. Extremely important because it informs how we do our business: action steps and implementation.
➢ From Jessica Allen (PAHO Commission): A web space for document sharing has been set up as a place where Network members can upload information to inform the Commission’s work. It is an interactive site that allows comments and discussions among users. The Commission is seeking case studies, published and gray literature on research and interventions related to health equity policy and programming. The materials will become part of the Commission’s evidence-based review of the Commission’s identified 10 health equity areas affecting health equity and well-being. The site will contain additional guidelines for the types of materials most useful for this review.

Call to Action: Network members who have research to post on this site should notify Andrea Leiva (andrealeiva@mednet.ucla.edu); we will forward your name/email address to have Jessica send you an invitation to access their site.

➢ Subcommittees
  1. Governance and Structure

➢ 2. Programming

3. Financial Development
From Manuel Urbina: an important area discussed at the Summit is the financing for health interventions and the impact on social determinants that can be made by governments and social organizations that have funding.

4. Communications: to be driven by a strategic communications plan including dynamic, interactive website and other online presence; listservs, ongoing webinars.

Call to Action: Network members are asked to consider participating as a member of one of the subcommittees. We have much work to do, beginning with defining the roles and action plans for each subcommittee. Your help will be invaluable.

- Linkages mentioned by webinar participants
  ➢ From Francisco Armada: The South American Council on Health of UNASUR has a technical group for the social determinants of health and comprises 12 member nations. www.isags-unasur.org
  ➢ From Luiz Galvao and Alexandre Siqueria (FIOCRUZ): Determinantes Sociais da Saúde: portal e observatório sobre iniquidades em saúde. http://dssbr.org/site/. The website will assist in monitoring trends of inequities in Brazil. Efforts have begun to identify indicators of social determinants of health and examine causes of disease, with first efforts focused on the Amazon region (northern Brazil).
Next Meeting
Planned for late January / early February. Members are asked to take a brief Doodle poll to help us plan a date that will accommodate the majority.
